

Gasoline for One Day's War Maneuvers

Phonephoto

Civilian motorists in the East are threatened with a gasoline shortage, and here is a demonstration of the reason why. This is the Lake Charles, La., gasoline depot of the Third Army, now preparing for maneuvers, and being unloaded from tank cars is just a portion of the 45,000 gallons of gasoline and oil used in a single day by the Third's 3,000 motor units. Similar depots are scattered over Texas and Louisiana.

STATE, BROADWAY TRAFFIC DETOURED

Exhibits To Be Featured: Numerous Contests Are Planned

Plans for Salem's Apple Festival Oct. 2, 3 and 4 went forward in earnest today following approval of principal committees and final arrangements at a dinner meeting of the Business bureau at noon Friday in the Lape hotel.

Sponsored jointly by Columbiana and Mahoning county orchardists and Salem merchants, the event is expected to attract thousands of persons to the city during the three-day celebration.

The entire business district of E. State st., between Ellsworth and Lincoln avenues, and South Broadway between State and Pershing sts. will be the scene of the festivities. State highway department officials have given approval to the detouring of Routes 62 and 14 traffic via E. Third st. Route 45 traffic will skirt the business district via E. Fourth st.

Festival and display booths will be much in evidence on the State st. and Broadway midways, according to Co-chairmen Ora E. Anderson and T. Emerson Smith.

The display booths, while naturally exhibiting apples, will feature other exhibits of agricultural and industrial products. District fruit farms will join in competitive displays.

A festival queen is to be chosen and parades will be a part of the daily programs. Numerous prizes are being lined up for contestants in various events. A dance, or apple ball, is to be another attraction.

Work will start at once on the construction of the 100 or more display booths which are to be set up. With vehicular traffic blocked, per-

CALLS ON REDS TO SAVE CITY

Voroshilov Stresses Danger To Leningrad: Hints Army Is Holding

(By Associated Press) MOSCOW, Aug. 23. — Marshal Klement Voroshilov, the defender of Leningrad, repeated urgent proclamations today declaring the Soviet's second city in "terrible danger" and urging Soviet citizens to perform their "holy duty" in fighting off the Nazi invader.

"Dig yourselves in! Leningrad was, and shall forever remain the city of the great October revolution," Voroshilov urged in an appeal to the citizens' army and regular troops.

"A terrible danger is hanging over Leningrad," he said. "The decisive moment has arrived. The enemy is nearing Leningrad. Our holy duty is to self-sacrificingly defend the path of the approaches to the city."

The Soviet communique, however, had by inference reported the Red army standing fast all along the front, from Leningrad to the Black sea, with no new areas of fighting mentioned.

Pravda, Communist party newspaper, said in a report from the front that combined forces of the Red army and Peoples' army had lifted the siege of an unnamed city and driven the Nazis back six miles in a counter-attack.

Leningrad was the focal point of the German attack and heavy anti-aircraft fire there was reported beating off repeated thrusts of the German Luftwaffe, while the huge city's sprawling industries ground out supplies for the battling Soviet forces and citizens built and manned barricades in the streets.

OPENS CAMPAIGN ON "BIKE" RIDING

A strict order against riding bicycles, velocipedes or other similar conveyances on sidewalks in the city, particularly in the downtown section, was issued today by Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer.

Boys or girls caught riding their bikes on sidewalks, hereafter, will lose possession of them for awhile, the chief said.

The city ordinance which declares that "it shall be unlawful for any person to ride a bicycle, tricycle or velocipede, or to roller skate on any sidewalk," is going to be enforced, Chief Stoffer said.

The chief explained that he was taking this action after receiving numerous complaints from persons who had narrowly escaped being hit by bicycles while walking in the business district.

Bicycles, the chief added, must carry lighted headlights after dark and the riders should sound a warning bell or other signal when approaching pedestrians.

Persons riding bicycles also should obey traffic signals, the same as motorists.

OHIO TROOPS DRAW PRAISE

New Streamlined "Destroyer Force" Smashes Foe Tank Attack

(By Associated Press) SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHWESTERN LOUISIANA, Aug. 23.—A new, streamlined unit of Ohio's 37th division — "the destroyer force" — drew praise from Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler today for smashing an "enemy" tank attack in what the commander called the "most colorful and effective achievement of the maneuvers."

The destroyer force, composed of artillery, anti-tank, reconnaissance, engineer and chemical detachments, "saved" several divisions of the V army corps against a thrust by tanks of the Eight army corps during maneuvers preparatory to next month's war games between the Second and Third armies.

Unrehearsed, headquarters staff, Washington, said he was especially pleased with the performance, which Brig. Gen. L. S. Connelly of Cleveland directed.

Decker, operator of the first truck, was uninjured. When the boys' car hit the rear of his truck it swung their car around into the path of the other truck, it was explained.

TRUCK IS HIT AND TOPPLES OVER ON CAR

Barberton Men, Riding In Auto, Are Crushed To Death

DRIVER OF TRUCK SLIGHTLY INJURED

Three Are Injured In Two-Car Collision East Of City

Two Barberton men were crushed to death when their automobile collided with a large coal truck on Route 224, one and one-half miles west of Ellsworth, north of Salem, at 4:15 a. m. today. The truck driver was injured.

A two-car collision on Route 14, east of here, brought injuries to three persons last night.

Victims in the Route 224 crash were William Oakley Humble, 29, of 610 W. Ford ave., Barberton, and George E. Humble, 18, of 561 Holmes st., Barberton. They are believed to have been cousins.

Collide With Two Trucks

According to Corp. James Bower and Patrolman Henry Lewis of the Salem state highway patrol substation, the victims' car, driven by William Humble, sideswiped the rear of a steel-laden truck driven by Marion L. Decker, 29, of Bellevue, and then skidded sideways in front of the coal truck, which was operated by Paul E. Goodman, 31, of R. D. 1, Canfield.

Goodman's truck was following close behind the other truck. The trucks were traveling west. The youths' car was enroute east.

The impact of the second collision threw the automobile into a ditch where the truck rammed into it a second time. The heavily-laden truck then upset on top of the automobile. The car, a '37 model, coach, was demolished, the officers said.

Goodman suffered a chest injury and cut on his neck. He was treated later by a physician. Employed by Mike Mercure of R. D. 1, New Waterford, he was transporting coal to the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. at Akron.

Decker, operator of the first truck, was uninjured. When the boys' car hit the rear of his truck it swung their car around into the path of the other truck, it was explained.

Difficultly was experienced in removing the bodies from the wreckage.

The bodies were taken to the Williams funeral home at Canfield.

FRENCH HELD AS HOSTAGES

Nazis Threaten Wholesale Purges; German War Aid Assassinated

(By Associated Press) VICHY, France, Aug. 23.—The lives of thousands of Frenchmen under arrest in occupied France were put in pawn by German military authorities today to halt acts of violence against members of the Nazi army of occupation.

Announcing that a member of the German army had been assassinated in Paris Thursday, Gen. Ernst von Schaumburg issued an order classing all those under arrest as hostages.

"In case of a new criminal attack," the order said, "a number of hostages corresponding to the gravity of the act committed will be shot."

150,000 Arrested

It is estimated here that approximately 150,000 Frenchmen have been arrested in the occupied zone since last May.

Von Schaumburg did not disclose the identity of the German slain, but it was reported in Vichy that he was a colonel on the Paris occupation staff. He was said to have been stabbed to death while in the subway.

The killing followed the arrest of 6,000 Jews, Communists and De Gaulle sympathizers in workers' sections of Paris. The roundup was said to be continuing, but on a smaller scale.

The Petain government, meanwhile, was reported to have decreed the death penalty for Communist activities and to have prepared a series of decrees to bring unoccupied France into line with German measures against growing unrest in Paris.

Recent advances from occupied France have told of numerous demonstrations and disturbances, which some quarters attributed in

"Gasless" Sunday Planned Tomorrow In Eastern Areas

Congress Hears Reports 100 More Tankers Needed For Britain

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Eastern motorists who plan long trips this weekend may have trouble buying enough gasoline to get back home. Filling stations in some localities have announced a gasless Sunday for the first time since 1918.

And a statement by Senator George (D-Ga.) indicated, please-ant drivers' troubles may only have begun. He said he was reliably informed a lack of oil transportation would force a one-third cut in eastern motor fuel, against the present 10 per cent curtailment.

More Tankers Needed

Unverified reports circulated in congressional circles that the government had called upon American oil companies to make up a pool of 100 additional deep-sea tankers to be turned over to the British.

Annual Mahoning Exhibits At Canfield Begin Saturday, Aug. 29

It's county fair time again! Pa's out picking his best apples. Mom's in the kitchen making her best preserves. Junior's out grooming his pony. Sister's knitting an afghan.

It's county fair time again!

America's biggest amateur, home-sown festivals are preparing to throw wide their gates.

Rural families, 4-H club members, Future Farmers of America, and even plain urban folk are preparing for an annual show of their best cooking, farming, and handicraft.

And a lot of fun besides.

The Mahoning, Stark, Columbiana, and Geauga county fairs are next in line in the northeastern Ohio area as the fair season approaches its annual harvest time peak.

The Mahoning festival, held last year to 50,000 people, will open on Aug. 29 and continue through Labor day, Sept. 1.

Stark county fair will run from Labor day through Sept. 4 and the Columbiana county fair from Sept. 9 to 12, once again being a four day event for the first time in several years.

This year's Mahoning county fair will be the 95th annual event, and the directors claim, "the biggest and best yet!" The premium list for the fair includes $5,000 in prizes, enough to draw a whale of a lot of entries into each department, and, in addition to the exhibits, will include a rodeo, a horse show, races, an art exhibit, a pony show, and the county-all-girls' band.

Next Saturday the second day of the fair, will be children's day and all school children will be admitted free for the big 4-H show.

CREDIT LIMIT HITS 24 ITEMS

Both Necessities and Luxuries Included In New Regulations

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Strict government regulations for installment buying, distributed today to take effect Sept. 1, affect not only a wide range of luxuries but many items long considered in the necessity class.

The new rules promulgated by the federal reserve board apply to pleasure cars and 23 other items such as musical instruments, home repair loans and other credit facilities. The general idea is to conserve materials for defense and prevent inflation.

Down Payment Necessary

Beginning the first of the month merchants, generally speaking, may not lend money without a down payment. They cannot give term credit without a down payment or permit installments to run more than 18 months.

The order, the board said, is strictly a start on credit regulations; changes will be made as necessity requires.

The restrictions include:

One-third minimum down payment and maximum of 18 months to pay the balance on new and used automobiles, airplanes, power driven boats, outboard motors, and motorcycles.

Twenty per cent minimum down payment and 18 months to pay balance on mechanical refrigerators of less than 12 cubic feet capacity, household washing machines, ironers, suction cleaners, cooking stoves and ranges, heating stoves, and space heaters, electric dishwashers, room-unit air conditioners, sewing machines, radios, phonographs and musical instruments composed principally of metal.

LAWYERS, DOCTORS DENTISTS TO MEET

Arrangements are nearing completion for the second annual outing of attorneys, physicians and dentists of Columbiana county.

The outing will be held Thursday, Aug. 28, at the East Palestine Country club, at Negley.

A golf tournament in the afternoon will be featured. The trophy won by the dentists in last year's competition will be at stake.

Dinner in the evening will follow the golf tourney and there will be informal entertainment after the dinner.

Last year's outing, the first held by the three organizations jointly, was sponsored by the attorneys. This year's will be directed by the dentists, and the physicians will take their turn next year.

The plan was launched on suggestion of the late Attorney Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool, as a means of getting county professional men together once yearly.

Aircraft Builders Losing On Government Work, Claim

Douglass Writes Off Loss of $2,570,122 On Army's New Giant Four-Motored Bomber

(By Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—It is costing two southern California aircraft manufacturers from half a million dollars a year to nearly eight times that much to build airplanes for the government, they told a United States committee investigating the aircraft defense program.

On the army's new giant four-motored bomber, the B-19, Douglas aircraft Corp. has written off a loss of $2,570,122. Donald W. Douglass, president, testified.

The big plane so far has cost $3,970,685, Douglass said yesterday, and the government is to pay only $1,424,651 under its contract. A committee member asked if he expected to receive any further payments for the bomber, and Douglass replied, "I'm afraid not."

Douglass placed his company's loss on government contracts at $1,882 for the first six months of this year, and said that for 1940 it was $1,142,651.

ON THE STATE OF BEING AWAKE

William S. Knudsen's idea that Americans aren't awake yet because no bombs have been dropped on them is made to order for editorial comment.

It is, in fact, an editorial comment just as it stands. Mr. Knudsen has said, in effect, that it is hard for Americans to behave as though they were at war because as far as they can see they aren't at war. That's an important fact to bear in mind, even if it's a simple one.

It's important because it has enabled Germany to hold the initiative in its bid for power. Think back. It was hard for the French to believe they were at war—and the French lived on Germany's boundary. It was hard for the British, too. In parts of Britain untouched by air raids, it's still hard, according to observers.

Canadians, who have declared war on Germany, worry about waking up, too. Like Americans, they are aware in a vague sort of way that they are living in the midst of momentous events but it's hard for them to realize that the momentous events concern them, too. Nobody has dropped any bombs on Canada either.

It's really a situation. Unfortunately, it's the kind of a situation that calls for some delicate handling which it may not get. For example, it is taking a lot for granted to assume that those who know most about it will refrain from jumping on those who know least about it. The state of being awake in a matter of this kind is not absolute but relative; at any given moment some will be more awake than others.

Probably it also is taking too much for granted to expect that officialdom as a whole will refrain from writing over its own shortcomings by blaming the public for being asleep. The people of the United States are not asleep. They might be wider awake than they are, but they are not asleep. Don't let the closed eyes fool you. The people are thinking. They're wondering what they could do if someone did drop a bomb that they're not doing now. What they're doing now is anything that anyone asks them to do, including a lot of things they see no reason for doing at all.

WASHINGTON MUST DO TWO THINGS AT ONCE

One of the frequent remarks about President Roosevelt is that he seems to have a surer touch in foreign policy than in domestic policy. The reason for this is plain.

Mr. Roosevelt's forte is his ability to think on the grand scale and initiate action. Foreign policy is a field large enough to permit the fullest exercise of this ability.

Administration and detail, on the other hand, are not the places where the President shines. More to the point, they are not the places where his administration has shone. The New Deal has been many things to many persons, but no one ever has characterized it as a smoothly functioning, efficient administrative machine.

This has been one of the plain facts of existence in the era of the More Abundant Life—observed during the last year by grandiose plans for dealing with the war emergency. But it continued to be true that unless the New Deal could improve its over-all efficiency in domestic administration, it still was destined to be embarrassed and hamstrung by its own shortcomings.

Some of those shortcomings are beginning to crop out as the country buckles down to the task of producing what is needed to back up the government's foreign policy. It is obvious, for instance, that Washington has become a bottleneck for the volume of paper work that it requires from manufacturers trying to turn out defense material. It is also plain that something still needs to be done to reduce the incidence of work stoppages in key places. A lot more down-to-earth thinking about inflation needs to be done than has been done yet—and it needs to be followed up by down-to-earth action. Foreign policy, no matter how brilliantly conceived, is so much eye wash unless backed up by thoroughly efficient administration of domestic affairs.

RUSSIA MUST WONDER, TOO

A report from London says unofficial strategists are wondering why Britain doesn't invade the continent. Russia must be wondering, too.

Most credible explanation for Hitler's decision to attack Russia is that he feared a final showdown with the British while the Russian army still was able to attack Germany from the east. It is commonly believed that if and when Russia's military power is destroyed, Germany then will coil itself for the climactic campaign—the invasion of Britain.

But to produce this situation, Germany has had to turn its back on the British. As German troops surge ever further into Russian territory and approach their goal of destroying Russian military power, just one little diversion in the west would be of incalculable value to the harassed Stalinists. The Russians must find it hard to believe the British are too weak to try it. If they are, their hope of ultimate victory is vain.

The British explain, of course, that they are doing everything in their power by continuous bombing raids, but that is of slight solace to the Russians. If the German air force couldn't flatten the United Kingdom last summer and fall with its mass raids, British aviation can't reasonably expect to inflict important injury in an area many times as large. A landing attempt might do as much to bolster Russia at this point as the beginning of the Russo-German war did to cheer up Great Britain.

Japan has been as annoying as prickly heat during a hot spell, but Uncle Sam has quit scratching where it itched. No more appeasement.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, August 24

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise of the sudden culmination of long worked for and cherished hopes and wishes. This may refer to the clergy or others faithful to their obligations. Their studies or some concentrated purpose may at long last find rewards and be graciously lifted into the public acclaim.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of definite opportunity for advancing their fortunes and position by a solidification or reorganization of their interests and securities on firmer and more enduring foundations. Elders, superiors or others in influential positions may assist or counsel in this.

A child born on this day should have much stability and sterling character as well as some extraordinary talent securing it in public acclaim.

For Monday, August 25

Monday's astrological forecast may prove a fairly lively day in both business and private affairs, with public interests claiming the major attention. Social service, humanitarian and cultural activities should be to the fore with those in authority encouraging. But don't be carried away by excitement. Be calm and self-contained for success.

Those whose birthday it is may find their best success and satisfaction in public service, humanitarian, and charitable social welfare, although private life should be happy. In all associations subdue mental irritabilities and caustic remarks.

A child born on this day should be sharp of speech and thought, although at heart kindly, cordial and sympathetic. It will be moderately successful and devoted to public welfare.

Automobiles are now a common necessity. Since man became motor conscious all walking distances beyond two city blocks have been eliminated, except in golf and the sport of going to the corner drug-store.

UNDERWEIGHTS SEEKING POUNDAGE

New Egg Powder Diet Helps, Says Clendening

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

We have published this summer as last, from time to time, diets for underweights. We have called this "Vacation Diets for Underweights" with the idea that a vacation is a good time to try to gain weight for those who need it, as well as lose weight for those who need that.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The underweight need not exert himself as much during vacation as in the ordinary business routine.

I come now to another suggestion recently made in the Journal of the American Medical Association. My correspondence is regularly augmented by requests from people who say that underweights are neglected and that we pay an undue amount of attention to reducing the overweight. For all of the underweights the following plan may be of value.

In the course of some experiments on the use of egg powder, it was observed that a gain in body weight occurred. This observation attracted attention because previous efforts to improve the weights of the subjects by means of high calorie diets, even with vitamin supplements, had failed. An experimental trial was therefore made on ten patients.

Egg Yolk Powder
These ten patients were given a well-balanced diet containing from 2600 to 3000 calories for five weeks. Then a diet containing 1900 to 2500 calories plus a hundred grams of egg yolk powder was given. One hundred grams of egg yolk powder represents 67 grams of fat and 22 grams of protein, equalling 620 calories. This would represent about ten egg yolks of average size. This diet augmented by egg yolk powder was continued from four to fourteen weeks. During the control period when no egg yolk powder was used, none of the patients gained weight. In about half the patients, there was a slight loss of weight.

Patients Showed Gains

After the diet was augmented by the egg yolk powder, the gain in body weight average, was 9 3-5 pounds per patient. The average increase per week per person was 1 1-4 pounds. One patient gained 25 1-2 pounds, and one patient gained fifteen pounds.

Only one patient failed to gain weight, due to the fact that the egg yolk powder was not well tolerated. It seemed therefore evident that there is some factor other than caloric intake which plays a part induced by the feeding of egg yolk powder. The caloric intake of five of the patients during the period of such feeding was slightly below that during the control period.

Questions and Answers

M. G. M.: "What causes phlebitis? I had it at child-birth twenty months ago, and my leg still swells. What is the best treatment for it?"

Answer: Phlebitis after child-birth causes a clot to form in a vein of the leg. In the course of time, the circulation is restored through other channels but the clot in the big vein causes the leg to swell after exercise or a long time. There is nothing dangerous about this, but would advise an elastic supporter to be worn for a year or two.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 43rd st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Milk Bottle Shortage

PAINESVILLE, O. — An unexpected wartime shortage became known when dairies here complained that they were seriously handicapped in their deliveries by a lack of milk bottles. C. A. Bottelle, manager of the local bottle exchange, said the shortage at present is more serious than during the World war.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.

SYNOPSIS

In all his twenty-four years, Christopher Allen Bishop had stood in awe of his family name and all it represented—bluebloods and millions! But today, he had gotten fed up with the whole artificial set-up, given up his $25-a-week "job," sent a farewell note to his aristocratic mother, and started out on his own in a roadster he had won in a radio contest. On the road to adventure, he picks up Joe Kane, a hitch-hiker. Against the latter's better judgment, they stop at a questionable lunchroom where Christopher's pocket is picked. Christopher retrieves his wallet but a free-for-all ensues. After beating their attackers, the two boys speed out of town.

CHAPTER THREE

Nothing like a light car for a quick get away," Christopher remarked cheerfully.

Joe whistled. "Boy, are you good? I guess it wuz the clothes an' the way you talked. I kinda thought you were soft, but.... can you toss knuckles?"

"It really wasn't a fair fight," Christopher commented, his heart still pounding. His breath scalded his throat but he wanted to scold. It took a real effort to talk calmly. "Not fair at all."

"I'll say it wasn't," Joe agreed, "but was it a beaut while it lasted? One against four...."

"But that's not what I mean," Christopher interrupted. "None of these chaps could fight and they were in a low mood." "And I gotta leave a guy like you in the next town!"

"Oh, I say, I'm terribly sorry. It's been swell traveling with you. I hope we meet up again."

They shook hands almost mournfully in the main street of Cressville which, as far as Christopher could observe, was but little improvement over the town they'd just left. But this was Joe's home and that distinguished it.

Joe, his hand on the car door, seemed to hesitate, as his free hand lingered something in an inner coat pocket.

Christopher pulled a bill from his wallet. "You're just starting on a job—might help, you know—You were a great help to me...." he was stammering, he who had been trained to pay and tip royally—if not always having the money with which to do so.

Joe saw the money and pulled back. "Nix on that! But, here," he pulled a card from his pocket and thrust it at Christopher. "This is where I'll be tomorrow. If you need a friend, just yell for Joe!"

"Oh, I say...." Christopher stammered, but with a waved salute Joe was gone, leaving the ornate car advertising "Kamp Kosy Komfort."

He'd only known Joe for an hour but he felt he'd made a friend. What a nice world!

Alone again, Christopher followed the road that skirted the river and finally led over a bridge. The contrast was startling. Behind him huddled the ugly little manufacturing town, before him was a charming residential section. Large stately houses on broad well-kept lawns, with good landscape gardening and a general air of well being and continued prosperity.

What Christopher saw impelled him to retreat.

As he followed the road, the lawns became wider and the houses larger. These undoubtedly were the homes of folks who owned the mills across the river. Contrast everywhere! Christopher was discovering America, discovering humanity, discovering the world.

Driving due west, the late afternoon sun gleamed directly into his eyes. He realized he was tired, his head ached annoyingly. The excitement of the day beat a myriad of small drums in his brain. To think that one brief day could hold so much.... and it not done yet. How could people be satisfied with their narrow, padded, protected lives when all this throbbing exciting existence was outside their doors—doors they opened only to the best names in their padded circle?

Christopher thought of Uncle Neddy—Edward Crofton Bishop in the Social Register—who inclined a sympathetic if slightly apologetic cheek toward his nephew when the latter was floundering in perplexities. At least Uncle Neddy always understood despite the things his sister-in-law said about him. As for ruining Christopher's morals, as she warned, Neddy's morals, or lack of them, were strictly his own and to be shared by no one.

"My dear boy," Uncle Neddy would say from the depths of his favorite chair in the club, "if a man hasn't sufficient initiative and ingenuity to design his own road to ruin, he deserves to be saved."

But with his new view of the world, it was not Uncle Neddy's past but his present that Christopher pondered. How could a man of means even at sixty be satisfied to view life from the depth of a leather chair, and through the plate glass windows of the club and the rosy haze of a long succession of drinks?

Edward Crofton Bishop hadn't left New York for ten years—not since he discovered that Gus, the club barman, could blend the perfect Fifth Avenue—a cocktail of Uncle Neddy's own design.

Christopher wondered what Joe would say about that. He liked Joe. Thinking about him brought back the warm glow of companionship—a new and pleasurable experience. Joe was ready for anything. He—

2—SAT STORY

A faint, somewhat wheezy melody cut through Christopher's thoughts. For a second, he couldn't be sure whether it really was a melody or the long drawn out squeal of bad breaks. He had been driving along slowly, his head bent, eyes on the road to shield them from the sun. He was at the intersection of a short road that ended perforce at the river drive. He slid the car to a stop and listened.

It was music, though there should have been another name for it. The melody he recognized as "Blue Danube." A good amateur musician with a nice ear for harmony, he tried to trace the melody through this peculiar bleating noise. "Da—dada da...."

The music stopped and Christopher drew a sigh of relief; but the torturing of the melody was soon resumed. It was more than Christopher could bear. He locked the car and stepped out. His wrist watch said 4:15. It was good to stretch his legs. He needed exercise and that musician needed guidance.

The sound came from the general direction of the corner property that was bordered by a high privet hedge. How utterly selfish of people to hide their gardens behind such fences. Then he remembered the barbed wire fence supporting the miles of barbary that bordered the Bishop's Long Island place. Even the road leading to it was marked "Private."

The entrance to this place was not nearly so remote, being clearly marked by two low stone pillars half a block from the main highway. As Christopher strode along the line of the hedge he heard the murmur of voices and occasional laughter punctuated by that strange, asthmatic music. His curiosity increased as he turned into the drive. Then he stopped abruptly.

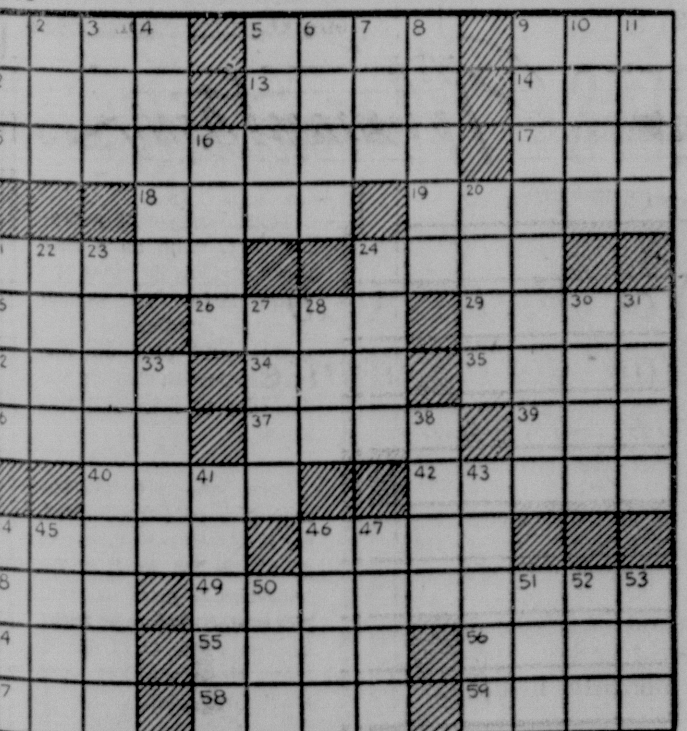

This drive was obviously the tradesmen's entrance. The hedge bordered a wide sweep of lawn, a good acre at least, with a fine old house set back among tall trees. At the rear of the house the land sloped to a sizeable farm, and between the house and out buildings, dozens of cars were parked.

The lawn was dotted with gay booths; girls in Dresden shepherdess costume fluttered about, selling cigarettes, candies and chances to other women and a small scattering of men.

All this Christopher saw in two glances. What he saw in the third glance impelled him to retreat. It was a white streamer, lettered in red:

Fire Engulfs Another Ship in New York Harbor

A fire boat moves close in, above, to battle a fire sweeping the 4,956-ton Finnish freighter Aurora in the Hudson river at New York. Eighteen crew members, including two waitresses, were rescued as the flames swept through the ship with the same rapidity as did the fire a few days earlier aboard the S. S. Panuco. One sailor died in the fire.

Only Way To Prove A Gun Is To Shoot It

So That's What They're Doing at Erie: Plenty of Work Looms

MIKE DESMOND

SANDUSKY—They can forge it with great care and they can X-ray it and they can figure pressures and strength, but nobody really knows if a cannon will blow up or not until they put that shell in it and fire it. So you have Erie proving grounds, near Lacarne, a few miles west of Sandusky. It used to be known as Erie ordnance depot because it was used for storage. It still is an ordnance depot, but its most important function today is "proving."

When the World War was over the army put a lot of brand-new cannons in storage here. They had never been fired. Today they are taking them out of storage, "proving" them, mounting them on their proper carriages and shipping them, on to the army camps for use. To-day we saw a small train-load of 240-millimeter howitzers, complete with caissons, loaded on flat cars and on their way to some unit of the army.

Lt. Col. T. K. Vincent is in charge here and has been for some years. Under him is Maj. H. H. Needham, who conducted us around the place, pointing out how the army tests its cannon.

They take only the barrel and breech-lock, bolt it down on fixed bases out in the field. The guns are pointed out into Lake Erie and if they are fired at zero elevation the shells will land about six miles out in the lake. At maximum elevation they'll shoot 12 or more miles. So they load the gun with a charge that is heavier than the gun will ever use in actual firing. Then the officers get into a concrete stockade. Only then is the gun fired. Once, Maj. Needham told us, a 240-mm howitzer couldn't take it, and pieces of the gun barrel blew all over the lot. But everybody was in the stockade and no one got hurt.

"We are the next bottleneck you will be hearing about," Maj. Needham told us. He means that shortly the production of ordnance will be on a large scale and that Erie and Aberdeen, in Maryland, are the only major proving grounds and therefore they'll be testing guns by the hundreds, maybe by the thousands, soon. To get set for this great increase in work, Erie proving grounds has enlarged its personnel from 40 to 940 men.

To expand facilities to handle this great influx of guns to be tested, WPA has built several heavy concrete roads to handle the transportation of the guns and shortly will build a long stockade, several hundred yards long. This will be a continuous wall of reinforced concrete to protect the men while guns are being tested by the hundreds. Erie proving ground also will go on a mass production basis, hoping not to be too much of a bottleneck.

Geologists Find Giant Sea Serpent

FORT COLLINS, Colo. — A glimpse backward into that dim past of 100 million years ago when oceans engulfed what now are the lofty Rocky Mountains was afforded today as geologists unearthed remains of a giant sea serpent.

When the Cretaceous seas were at their greatest depth, these serpents paddled their way through the waters over the North American continent. They measured from 45 to 50 feet, had broad turtle-like bodies, long necks and elongated flippers.

The buried record of that period long ago is being uncovered slowly just west of this northwestern Colorado city. The fin of one of these serpents—known as the Plesiosaurs—already has been uncovered, and the neck is in the process of being removed.

The diggings are expected to reveal the head of the Plesiosaur, as well as other bone structures.

Importance of Find

The new find, made by Ed Gregory of Ordway, Colo., a junior forestry student at Colorado State College, will add much to the historical record of the North American continent, according to Major Roy Coffin, the school's professor of geology.

Scientists believe this is the first plesiosaur found in this section of the country.

The plesiosaur was one of the reptile species which returned to the seas and through evolution became more like the mythical sea serpent. The Cretaceous seas encroached on the land and finally

CAMPUS GARB IS SIMPLE, COMFORTABLE, SMART

Ask any "old girl" from college or prep school what her chief requirements are for campus wear, and the answer will be that she wants clothes that are comfortable, simple, but smart. It is easy to fill the bill this season. The classic shirtwaist frock, for instance, shown left, has some subtle changes this season. It has a set-in belt in place of a loose one, and a skirt that is pleated all the way around. Number one requirement for career girls as well as the college crowd is a jacket suit, such as the one shown center. It is a single-breasted jacket of celanese plaid in victory blue, red and gray, worn with a plain blue skirt. Collar and lapels are rounded and well tailored patch pockets make for the newer, softer line, while inverted kick pleats front and back give room for action without fullness. A college classic this year is the jiffy-jumper. The model, right, is made from a yard and a half of 54-inch woolen fabric without a seam. The jumper is cut all in one piece, with a center pleat and two darts at the waistline, and a back placket with zipper from hem to top. Blouses and sweaters look equally well with this jumper.

"Gasless" Sunday Planned Tomorrow In Eastern Areas

In the battle of the Atlantic precipitated the current petroleum emergency.

Tomorrow will be a gasless Sunday in some eastern areas, particularly in some parts of northern Virginia, by individual action of filling station operators who have announced they would look up in order to spread their limited gasoline supplies through the remainder of August.

Meanwhile, the eastern seaboard's 100,000 station operators and 10,000,000 motorists alike awaited a statement from the office of defense petroleum coordination which was expected to ease the current confusion by projecting a uniform program for equitable distribution of available gasoline supplies.

Formula Planned It was understood the office, aided by the petroleum industry, would provide a formula for limiting the motor fuel delivered at each sale, with the number of gallons determined by the individual station's supply on hand.

Stations in some cities already had commenced rigid rationing to consumers, limiting each sale to five gallons.

In other areas, however, the stations continued to fill all orders, causing expressions of fear here that some cities may find themselves completely out of gas before the month-end, after the limited supplies have been sold.

Way Is Discovered To Cure Teeth Mottled By Fluorine

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK—(The Special News Service)—Tens of thousands who hate to smile because they have fluorine-mottled teeth have a new hope, a treatment which promises to get rid of this supposedly lifetime stain in less than an hour.

An assignment of routine detective work in trailing a suspected treatment led to the discovery. The story was told in a report to the New Mexico State Dental society by two Albuquerque dentists, Doctors Howard R. Raper and J. G. Manser.

Mottled enamel, stains of dark brown patches mixed with chalky white, is due to fluorine in drinking water. This chemical, when concentrated, is a lemon-yellow gas. In the water it is harmless except that when children's teeth are forming it frequently stains them indelibly, down in the enamel.

The fluorine trouble has been reported from scores of places scattered all over the United States, but with the majority in the southwest.

"Every dentist in America," the Albuquerqueans said, "has seen fluorine mottled teeth, spotted with brown and white like a pinto pony. And nearly every dentist has on occasion advised victims that there is nothing to be done for them, except perhaps to make jacket crowns."

There is an old-time treatment, they pointed out, in grinding off the stain, and bleaches have been reported, with uncertain results.

Last May it was the duty of Dr. Raper, as a member of the state board of dental examiners, to investigate the claims of a woman offering to remove fluorine stains with a secret fluid for $25 a case. She apparently did not know she might be violating a state code.

Dr. Raper started the customary routine, which is to gather evidence, and if the law is violated, to warn the violator. This eventually led him to meet the woman to watch her operate.

"She dipped cotton wrapped on an orange-wood stick into a yellowish, sour-smelling solution," he said, "and rubbed it on the stained teeth. Then she had the patient rinse the mouth with a second solution, also secret."

"This process was repeated many times. I had expected that the effect would be so slight there would be some argument as to whether anything had been accomplished. 'I had expected to have to say, 'no, I can't see any difference yet,' and I expected to listen to such persuasive phrases as, 'can't you see that? Surely you can see the difference. Here, miss so and so, look in the mirror—you see the difference, don't you?'"

Surprised at Result

"Well, it wasn't anything like that at all. Anybody, everybody, could see the difference almost at once. The magic, mysterious fluid was making the teeth white. The effect was as spectacular and unmistakable as the effect of soap and water on a small boy's face."

The woman would not disclose what she used. She said she had a daughter with mottled teeth and discovered the formula in helping the child.

However, Doctors Raper and Manser had an idea what the secret chemical must be. They experimented. They found one which demonstrated to the dental society. It had been used, in a short time, successfully on 15 persons, and no bad results found.

This fluid is an acid. He gave the facts to the dental profession, but suggested that the name ought not to go out as general news, because anyone can get it, use it, and by over-use, destroy the teeth.

This acid, he believes, is the fluid the woman practitioner used. He added that it is reasonably safe to assume that the same acid is essential in certain other secret formulas for mottled teeth.

Some Enamel Eaten Off

The acid eats off some of the enamel. The important point, Dr. Raper explained, is that usually the brown spots are not deeply buried. There still is enough enamel left.

One reason, he said, why dentists have been hesitant of acid or grinding has been the impression that the brown goes clear through the tooth. It does not, he said, in the cases he has seen.

He said that the depth of the dark spots varies, and warned dentists not to make definite promises of cures. The chalky white spots do go deep, he said, and added that he does not always remove them because there may be no need to.

The ability to smile was the big thrill of both the men and women he treated. Some of the girls were smiling willingly for the first time. One, with her first smiles, said, "and am I doing it!"

A man, early 30, remarked, "now I can get a better job!"

THIS HAND LIFTS Mountains

There used to be a saying that, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world. Today we women have no cradles to rock, but we still play an important part in shaping the destinies of men and nations."

Often, the part that women play goes unobserved, for it is woman's nature to go about her work unobtrusively. It gives me real pleasure, therefore, to mention here Mrs. O. G. Stark, lady attendant at the Stark Memorial.

It is not exaggerating to say that her gentle, understanding hands have lifted mountains of cares and worries from shoulders already bowed with grief. Here is a work of which any woman might well be proud.

Services In Our Churches

'The Quest for Rest' Rev. Bauman Sermon

9:15 a. m.—Pastor's Bible class. 11 a. m.—German service. Sunday provides "Buys" amidst the quickness of time, marking the channel to haven of peace. Sunday leads us to an oasis in the desert, where the wayward traveler finds of the fountain of life, and sips of the fruit of the tree of life. On Sunday you find really true Christians will COME TO CHURCH.

This Really Works
Times crash into our lives when we just feel it is utterly impossible to do another "blessed thing." We have tried our best and that none too good. We have striven, struggled, fussed and fretted until we are absolutely "at the end of the rope."

What to do then? Have you found anything that helps in these distressed hours? Here is more than a suggestion found in Psalm 4, 10. "Be still and know that I am God." That makes more than unusually good sense. Our own efforts all are futile and unavailing. So we may as well cease from them; but we commit folly merely to stop, sigh, sob and suffer. Stop to be still with God. Rest with your mind fixed upon the Eternal Creator and Manager of all this mighty universe. Realizing the presence and power of God in the quiet moments, revives, restores. As we recall and vividly know that God is still God, that His throne of grace still rules even down to our own little world; then the things of earth and time fall into their proper place. Such stillness and conscious rest in God recreate us for further noble, courageous participation in the battle of life.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mankind will improve through Science and Christianity. Co-ed Is Army Cadets' Flying Queen

FORT HAYES, Aug. 23.—Dashing Dolly Heberding, Ohio State university sorority sister and top-notch amateur aviatrix, has been chosen as the Fifth Corps area air "Queen" of the August class of aviation cadets, it was announced at Fort Hayes.

Already well known in central west aviation circles, this hale, hearty and handsome Heberding-gal is flying at Columbus. She is now training for a commercial license. It won't be long before daring Dolly earns the distinction of being the first woman flight instructor in Ohio's capital, it's rumored. (The air student tag-line is already forming on the right!)

Winner of the Friedlander trophy for top-scoring co-ed pilot in the National Intercollegiate 1941 Flying club meet at Middletown, Miss Heberding has zoomed to aviation honors. Former president of the O. S. U. Avion club, she presented famed Miss Jacqueline Cochran a special university cup during Miss Cochran's Columbus visit last spring.

"Flying has always seemed natural for me," Miss Heberding said. "Two of my brothers are pilots. I guess it's just an old Heberding habit! It's fun to fly! And, another thing, if it weren't for that army regulation excluding women from the U. S. air force, I'd try to be right up there a-flying for Uncle Samuel. Oh Well! Maybe later—who knows? Ritchie Hurls Mullins To No-Hit 14-0 Shutout Over Rec's

RECREATION FAILS TO PUT RUNNER ON BASE IN CONTEST

Ritchie Back In Form of Last Year When He Led Sanitary to Finals

Back in the groove after an early-season slump, Dale Ritchie showed last night that he is still one of the best pitchers in the Salem city loop by hurling Mullins to a no-hit, 14-0 shutout of the Recreation in a five inning Class A game. Ritchie, whose pitching last year took the Sanitary into the city playoffs under the lights of Reilly field, struck out six men and walked none in the lopsided contest.

Not a man reached first in the sort of game that pitchers dream about—no hits, no runs, no walks, no errors, and not a man on base.

Early struck out four, walked three, and granted 11 hits to be completely overshadowed by Ritchie's hurling.

Church League

YPCC up the Trinity's last night as Ritchie committed two errors in the seventh to enable the winners to stage a four-run rally and win 5-3. The Young People collected only six hits from Knapp, while the Trinity's gathered nine from Hagan.

The Baptists plastered the Presbyterians to the tune of 9-1 last night as Ritchie allowed just two hits, a triple by Houlette and a double by Milligan. Neither side chalked up an error.

Pitch Fells Cardinals' Captain

—I. I. N. Soundphoto

Anxious teammates and players of the Boston Braves surround Terry Moore, captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, as he lies on the ground after becoming dangerously acquainted with a new variety of Boston "bean," a pitch that struck Moore on the temple and knocked him out for 10 minutes. Moore suffered simple cerebral concussion and a lacerated scalp when one of Lefty Art Johnson's slants struck him above the left ear. He was taken to a Boston hospital, where he was reported "resting comfortably."

Detroit Furnace Salesman, Trapshooting Only A Month, Vandalia Handicap Winner

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA, Aug. 23.—A 52-year-old novice trapshooter, Walter Lee Tulburt of Detroit, Mich., ruled the day target sport today after beating a field of 1093, second largest in history, in the 42nd annual Grand American handicap.

Using a second-hand $40 pump gun which he bought to shoot ducks, the Motor City entrant broke 99 of 100 yesterday in the day target classic to tie Del Bundschuh, 28-year-old Fremont, O., machinist. In a shoot-off featured by the nervousness of each finalist, Tulburt won by breaking 23 of 25 while his younger foe was getting 22. Tulburt appeared to have tossed away all hopes of taking the crown when he missed the fifth and sixth targets in the extra session, but Bundschuh, awed by a gallery of about 10,000, "blew" the 12th, 14th and 19th targets to lose.

The two unknowns received about $1,500 each for their performance. Tulburt said he'd buy defense bonds with his share, but Bundschuh said he'd have to wait until he "cooled off" before deciding what to do with his.

Previous Mark Was 89
The new champion, although a high-ranking skeet shot, has been shooting over traps only a month or so. His best score until he blasted all but the 98th in yesterday's string, was 89.

WHIRLWAY GOES FOR $45,000 IN AMERICAN DERBY

Robertson Will Pilot The Strongest Favorite To Ever Be Entered

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—The end of the rainbow was at the finish line of Washington park's American derby today, and Chicago racegoers have tagged the $45,000 pot of gold for Whirlway.

Six horses were named overnight to race Whirlway at a mile and a quarter for the first place money, but the suspicion prevailed that the other 3-year-olds were angling for the lesser nuggets awaiting the second, third and fourth place winners. The 31st running of the event had a gross value of $60,500 with all seven starting, $45,575 going to the winner.

Whirlway was expected to be backed down in the betting to 1 to 5 by post time, about 5:15 p. m. (EST.), making him the strongest favorite ever to run in the fixture. A forecast of fair weather pointed toward a fast track and a heavy turnout of turf followers for the historic race.

Others entered were Walmac farms Bushwhacker, David Strauss' Daily Trouble, Clarence Davidson's Delray, John Marsch's To-A-Tee, Mrs. Emil Denemark's Valinda Duke and Howard Wells' Happy Pilot.

Jockey Alfred Robertson, who rode Warren Wright's bushy-tailed colt to two victories at Saratoga, was named to pilot Whirlway, and Trainer Ben Jones pronounced the heir-apparent to the 3-year-old throne in perfect condition.

Bushwhacker was considered the horse with the best chance of upsetting Whirlway and Chicagoans remembered the Arlington Classic with Whirlly the 2 to 5 choice and Attention the winner.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.

(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The lawn tennis association is flying storm signals as the results of tests drifting down from the Newport invitation tournament. . . . One yarn is that the tournament chairman had to appeal to a sporting goods manufacturer to get the entries of some star players he wanted. . . .

Another is that a bunch of Californians held out on the national doubles championships, demanding that their expenses for the week should be paid by the Longwood club. . . . The association won't act until somebody comes up with proof. . . .

If you think the football season is just starting, ask one of the guys who looks after ticket sales. Anybody who wants to buy one pastebore for a single game at Minnesota hasn't a chance even this early in the season of landing anywhere but behind the goal posts; Washington may establish a new record for season-ticket sales, and all the other big colleges report a brisk demand.

Family Ties

Cy Fisman, Jr., is following in his dad's footsteps as an umpire in the Cotton States league. . . . Young Bob Grove, Old Man Mose's son, is a pitcher for the Fall River club of the New England league. . . .

The Lynn team of the same circuit recently sent Bill Timmerman, who's dad was a good minor league infielder, up to the New York Giants. . . .

Dick "Erd" Erditz, North-western quarterback, inherited his nickname from his father, a former circus clown. . . . Dick used to travel with the circus, too, and his last job was keeper for Gargantua. . . . Hope that taught him how to handle those Minnesota and Ohio State linemen.

Today's Guest Star

Lynn C. Doyle, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "The treasury announces that defense savings bonds are to be sold in all baseball parks. . . . So far as the American league is concerned, the issue would be a sellout if the bonds were being sold for defense against the Yanks."

Contributors' Corner

Bell Telephone reports from West Texas that Uddell Moore, son of Wiley Moore, the old-time Yankee pitcher, is moving 'em down for a job in the West Texas-New Mexico league. . . . Mel Deutsch, who was Moore's teammate at the U. of Texas, is doing well for Greensboro in the Piedmont league. . . .

H. L. Woolridge, a Lynchburg (Va.) fan, thinks the difference between Cincinnati being in first and fourth is that Jimmy Wilson ain't there any more.

Dut-b Treat?

Now that Pittsburgh sportswriters have thrown a party for Bill Klem just to show they think an umpire can be a good guy, Jerry Mitchell of the N. Y. Post suggests a testimonial dinner for Oscar Vitt at Cleveland after the season.

Frank Gabler, former New York Giants performer, is rated as one of the merriest men in Southern Association circles. He pitches for the New Orleans Pelicans.

Moe Berg, veteran roach of the Boston Red Sox, is an inveterate leader, and while the team is travelling he often buys every periodical the butcher boys have to sell.

BILL SCALLY, EAST PALESTINE TRACK STAR, JOINS TRIBE

Bill Scally, East Palestine track and baseball star, has signed a contract with the Cleveland Indians and will join one of the Cleveland farm teams in Wisconsin next summer.

Scally was seen locally in the NEO district track and field meet here this spring. He also played baseball with the Legion Juniors and Adamsons in East Palestine.

He plans to attend Baldwin-Wallace college this fall.

Local Riders Invited To Compete At Salem-Alliance Game

Class 3: Open to ponies under 14 hands in height, rider 15 years or younger. To be judged as to seat and hands of rider and conformation and performance of pony.

Class 4: Open only to ponies or horses for hire, rider 15 years or younger, not owning a pony or horse. To be judged only on the performance of pony or horse and hands and seat of rider at a walk, trot, and gallop.

Game Called

CENTER, Tex.—V. A. Naylor, one of the spectators at a softball game in Center, went scouting for a lost ball and found something he wasn't looking for—a nest of wasps.

The wasps discovered him first, however, and the resultant commotion made the other spectators, the players and umpires forget about the game.

Naylor vows today that from now on he'll stay in the stands and let someone else look for the lost balls.

YANKS LOSE SPARK WITHOUT DIMAGGIO; BOW TO TRIBE, 5-4

Sluggers' Injury Takes Zip Out of American League Leaders

BY GAYLE TALBOT

Associated Press Sports Writer
It has been suspected all season that the Yankees consist of Joe DiMaggio and a bunch of other ball players, and the things that have been happening to Joe McCarthy's club since DiMag turned his ankle Tuesday in Detroit only point up the fact.

Without their big puncher, the Yankees have lost three straight games, making only two scratch hits in the game and submitting rather meekly in the pinches. When Jim Bagby of the Cleveland Indians checked him yesterday, 5 to 4, it was almost too much.

DiMaggio seems to supply most of the inspiration for the Yanks. Charlie Keller, who is a slugger when Joe is in there hitting in front of him, has hit safely only once in the past three contests, and that was a scratch single. The other Yanks appear similarly affected.

Saved By Long Lead
Luckily for the New Yorkers, their lead is ridiculously long, so the temporary absence of DiMaggio is nothing to worry about.

Their past two losses cost the Yanks nothing in the standing, for the Chicago White Sox cooled off abruptly and dropped two straight to Boston, yesterday by a score of 2-1. Joe Dobson held the runners-up to six hits, and the Red Sox thereby climbed within a game and a half of second place.

At Detroit, Berney McCosky came to bat with two out and two mates on base in the last of the ninth inning and cracked a very satisfying homerun. The blow climaxed a five-run last-ditch rally that licked Washington, 5-4.

Frankie Hayes clouted a seventh-inning homer as the Athletics nosed out of the St. Louis Browns, 3-4.

Cards and Dodgers Stable
Brooklyn's game and a half lead over the St. Louis Cards in the National league remained unchanged as both won yesterday and moved a notch nearer their clash tomorrow at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers scored an easy one over the Chicago Cubs 8 to 5, but the crippled Cardinals had a struggle to overcome the Phillies, 4 to 2, in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's headlong dash toward the top was halted by Jim Tobin of the Boston Braves, who set the world champions down 9-1.

Pittsburgh ganged Bow Bowman for three runs in the eighth, including a homer by Maurice Van Robays, to down the collapseible Giants, 5-3.

now on he'll stay in the stands and let someone else look for the lost balls.

part to unemployment and a shortage of proper food.

Newspaper reports have indicated a reconciliation between Communist elements in Paris and De Gaulle sympathizers since the German invasion of Russia began.

Vichy officials have expressed increasing concern over railroad sabotage, and have warned that drastic steps would be taken against saboteurs.

French army or navy courts martial will handle the cases in the unoccupied area, their verdicts calling for immediate execution without possibility of appeal. The decree applies to Communists and leftists who previously have been subject only to civil courts.

In lesser cases prison terms up to life may be ordered, and offenses involving military or public officials may be punishable merely by fines.

This would imply that disaffection also exists in official ranks.

Meanwhile, Interior Minister Pierre Pucheu resumed the wholesale removal of mayors and liquidation of township administrations, nine mayors and 31 town councils being fired in the first action. Charges ranged from "insulting remarks concerning the person of Marshal Petain" and "hostility to the work of national restoration" to simple "drunkenness."

Similar action had been taken against municipal authorities some time ago but the campaign had lapsed.

Voroshilov Stresses Danger To Leningrad; Hints Army Is Holding

said to be hammering at Russian airdromes on the outskirts of Leningrad as German troops pressed their offensive against the Soviet city, cradle of the October revolution and the chief prize of the northern flank where the Russians have entrusted the defense to Voroshilov.

A hit in the motor of his plane as it flew low over an airfield occupied by German infantry forced it down, the agency said.

Again withdrawing into its periodic shell of vagueness, the bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters today dismissed the whole campaign against Russia with the one terse sentence: "Operations on the east front continue according to plan."

Eight airports were raided yesterday, and 35 Russian planes were destroyed on the ground and 16 in air fights, the Germans said. Rail lines east of the city also were reported heavily bombed.

Sukkas were said to be blasting anti-aircraft positions north and east of Narva, which is 90 miles southwest of Leningrad.

(The Finnish high command said Finnish troops had reached points 50 miles north of Leningrad after breaking up five Soviet divisions and cracking defenses set up by the Russians on the former Finnish Mannerheim line. The entire northeast shore of the Vuoksi river was reported in Finnish hands.)

New Streamlined "Destroyer Force" Smashes Foe Tank Attack

Hustled into position only five minutes ahead of the onrushing tank battalion despite a collapsed bridge, the unit set up a simulated barrage that repelled the invaders.

"It probably was the most colorful and effective of the maneuver's opening exercises," Beightler remarked.

In other opening maneuvers, Ohio troops have been subjected to nearly every type of modern warfare, the commander said.

A raid by eight bombers (dropping broken sand bombs) greeted the general and his staff as they pulled into this sector. Umpires ruled the bombardiers' efforts "ineffectual" as Beightler succeeding in scattering his men, and the explosives missed their targets.

DEADLINE ON TAX PAYMENT NEARING

LISBON, Aug. 23.—County Treasurer Olen H. Dawson today called the attention of property owners in Columbiana county to the fact that only 14 days remain for the payment of taxes on real estate for the last half of 1940, without penalty.

The current collection, which opened Aug. 1, will close Sept. 11, Dawson stated, and there will be no extension of time when the deadline is reached. The collection has been very good to date, but with the time limit drawing short, property owners will do well to take cognizance of the fact and forestall a last-minute rush.

Lewis Stone, Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney, three of the Hardy Family cast, are shown in a scene from "Life Begins for Andy Hardy," their latest screen hit!

Coming to the State theater tomorrow is the latest in the Hardy family series, "Life Begins for Andy Hardy," with the usual Hardy family cast, Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone, and Fay Holden, plus Judy Garland, and a newcomer to the series, Patricia Dane, who plays the part of the sophisticated city girl who takes Andy for a "sucker."

Andy, having finally graduated from high school, as was seen in the previous picture, now determines to set out for New York to see if he can make good on his own. He is accompanied by Betsy Booth, his idolizing girl friend in the city.

Mickey's role reaches a dramatic pitch on a level with his last performance in "Men of Boy's Town" (for the first time in the series, when he finds himself without a job, broke, and in rags. The intense drama is interspersed with typical Andy Hardy comedy, however, especially in a puppy love scene with Ann Rutherford, when the two bid goodbye to each other "forever," in scenes between Mickey and Judy, whom he still regards as a "little kid," and in the scene where Miss Dane takes Andy, the country sucker, for a $15 bottle of perfume and a taxi ride home, clear across the town.

Showing Sunday only at the Grand is a double feature, "They Met in Argentina," starring Maureen O'Hara and James Ellison, and "Highway West," with Brenda Marshall and Arthur Kennedy.

"They Met in Argentina" an RKO film, is about the complications of a young American engineer meets when he is ordered to purchase a valuable race horse from his haughty Irish-Argentinian owner. The owner's daughter misunderstands his interest, and by the time she discovers his real objective, has fallen in love with him.

At the State for the last time today is "The Lady From Cheyenne" with Loretta Young, and Robert Preston. At the Grand are "Two Gun Sheriff" starring Don "Red" Barry, and "Ranger's Roost" with the Range Busters.
